

Baseline methods for distributed flexibility in power systems considering resource, market, and product characteristics

A. Sanjab; J.P. Chaves Ávila; L. Lind; L. Olmos Camacho; M. Valarezo Rivera

Abstract-

Emerging flexibility markets are increasingly characterised by many product characteristics, differing flexibility buyers, and a disparate set of potential Flexibility Service Providers (FSPs), including those connected to the

Index Terms- Baseline Distributed energy resources Flexibility service provision Aggregation

Due to copyright restriction we cannot distribute this content on the web. However, clicking on the next link, authors will be able to distribute to you the full version of the paper:

Request full paper to the authors

If your institution has an electronic subscription to Utilities Policy, you can download the paper from the journal website:

Access to the Journal website

Citation:

Chaves, J.P.; Lind, L.; Olmos, L.; Sanjab, A.; Valarezo, M. "Baseline methods for distributed flexibility in power systems considering resource, market, and product characteristics", Utilities Policy, vol.86, pp.101688-1-101688-10, February, 2024.